How did we get here?

A little planning background on us…

We’re researchers and planners

We’re part of the Research & Planning Group Board

Chairs of Planning and Policy and Professional Development

Worked on college and district level plans

Institutional Effectiveness Partnership Initiative (IEPI) - Integrated Planning Workshops

We’re familiar with planning in Accreditation, ACCJC (Institution Set- Standards), CCCCCO (IEPI goals), and lots of other plans
What did we do to prepare for today’s workshop?

Talked with planners at SBVC

Looked at some of San Bernardino Valley College Plans

Strategic Plan 2014-2019

Student Success and Support Programs Plan

Student Equity Plan

Draft of Educational Master Plan

Thought about best practices and drivers of planning
How did you get here?

Activity 1:

Share why you chose to come to this workshop and what you are hoping to get out of this series on planning
Workshop Series Outcomes:

Big Hairy Audacious Goals for the series of planning workshops

- Identify what SBVC needs in their planning model
- Develop your definition integrated planning at SBVC
- Explain relationships between various college plans
- Describe how cultural competency is a unifying feature of your plans
- Maybe love planning a little more…
There isn’t a right or one way to plan

But there are important principles:

○ Leadership is a critical component for any plan
○ Collaboration, Inclusion, and Communication are important values
○ Planning is not set in stone but a living document & process that can change
○ Planning is about getting better
○ Planning is moving in the same direction for common goals
Signs of Good Planning....

- Academic strategic decision making means that a college, school, or university and its leaders are active rather than passive about their position in history...

- Strategic planning looks outward and is focused on keeping the institution in step with the changing environment...

- Academic strategy making is competitive, recognizing that higher education is subject to economic market conditions and to increasingly strong competition.

- Strategic planning concentrates on decisions, not on documented plans, analyses, forecasts, and goals...

- Strategy making is a blend of rational and economic analysis, political maneuvering, and psychological interplay. It is therefore participatory and highly tolerant of controversy...

- Strategic planning concentrates on the fate of the institution above everything else.

Your Planning Perspective at SBVC

Activity 2: Your Perspective on Planning (Worksheet)

1. How you are involved in planning at the college?
2. What plans are used in your areas?
3. How do major plans direct or guide your work?
What is Integrated Planning?

Integrated planning is the linking of vision, priorities, people, and the physical institution in a flexible system of evaluation, decision-making and action. It shapes and guides the entire organization as it evolves over time and within its community.

Defining integrated planning for SBVC

Relationships between plans
Today’s Focus

Review accreditation planning-related recommendations for improvement

Reflect on the current strategic plan structure, components, and measures

Prioritize areas for improvement of the strategic planning model
What did we do to prepare for today’s workshop?

- Debriefed with planners at SBVC following first session
- Reflected on first session evaluation results
- Reviewed ACCJC recommendations from previous accreditation cycle
- Brainstormed on how we could best assist the college in creating a meaningful, manageable planning and evaluation process
Workshop Series Outcomes (Updated):

Big Hairy Audacious Goals for the series of planning workshops:

- Identify what SBVC needs related to planning
- Explain relationships between various college plans
- Develop a framework for integrated planning and prioritization that aligns plans, goals, evaluations, and timelines
- Discuss strategies for incorporating cultural competency into your plans
- Maybe love planning a little more :)

More history on our planning hurdles

Planning is Journey

Our institutions are continuously learning and evolving

Reflecting and understanding where we are are the planning journey will help us map out our way forward

Inclusiveness of planning processes is incredibly important - our stakeholders must be able to see themselves in our plans and planning process

The planning process is as important as the plan itself

The importance of Language & Shared Understanding (Definitions)

| Goals | High-level, broad aims of the institution; may imply change or describe an operational focus area; all encompassing statements about the general directions of the college |
| Objectives | Describe the major ways in which the goal will be accomplished, more specific than goals but not as granular as an action item |
| Action Steps | Even more granular than objectives, they describe the steps that will be taken to reach the college’s objectives (some may review/revise yearly) |
| Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) | High level elements that are monitored, measured, and evaluated to determine college progress toward goals |

Conduct MMAP analysis and pilot multiple measures | Percentage of students competing transfer-level English and math in first year

In order to improve effectiveness, the team recommends that dialogue about the results of the evaluation and measurement of strategic goals and objectives be increased so that the outcomes of College efforts to improve can be used to make decisions regarding the improvement of institutional effectiveness in an ongoing and systematic cycle of evaluation, integrated planning, resource allocation, implementation, and re-evaluation. - What can be improved?

The Case for Prioritizing Goals and Objectives

Being strategic means we need to:

We often gravitate toward “doing it all” without having a robust (and uncomfortable) discussion of our actual priorities

If we focus on the goals of greatest importance to the institution, we can make the planning process more meaningful and manageable
Current SBVC
Goals & Strategic Initiatives

1. Access: SBVC will improve the application, registration, and enrollment procedures for all students.
2. Student Success: SBVC will increase course success, program success, access to employment, and transfer rates by enhancing student learning.
3. Communication, Culture, and Climate: SBVC will promote a collegial campus culture with open lines of communication between all stake-holder groups on and off campus.
4. Leadership & Professional Development: SBVC will maintain capable leadership and provide professional development to a staff who will need skills to function effectively in an evolving educational environment.
5. Effective Evaluation & Accountability: SBVC will improve institutional effectiveness through a process of evaluation and continuous improvement.
6. Facilities: SBVC will support the construction and maintenance of safe, efficient, functional facilities and infrastructure to meet the needs of students, employees, and community.
Activity 3: Reflecting on College Goals & Objectives, Part 1

Take a moment to review your assigned college goal and associated objectives

- What is the difference between the goal and strategic initiative?
- How well do you think the objectives define the goal or strategic initiative?
- Do they describe the overall strategies to achieve the goal?
- Could they be aggregated or prioritized so that they are more manageable?
- How could cultural competency be integrated into the goal or objectives?
Report out on Activity #3 - Part I
Activity 3: Reflecting on College Goals & Objectives, Part 2

Take a moment to review your assigned college goal and associated objectives

- What observations can you make about how the goal is evaluated?
- Who is responsible for ensuring the objectives for each goal are met?
- Who engages in dialog about whether the goal was met and what action should be take place based on the performance indicator data?
Report out on Activity #3 - Part II
Some Thoughts on Integrating Cultural Competence into College Goals

Examples of strategies:

- Focus on professional development
- Explore relationships between goals
- Leverage the student voice
- Acknowledge that culture change takes time

What did we hear from you in February?

Goals and KPI data not widely communicated or understood

Too many objectives

Several KPIs were not measureable

Planning and evaluation process should be more inclusive

Currently no formal process for reviewing and updating the plan based on data and campus dialog

What else was valuable about this workshop?

Time to look at the strategic plan

Dialogue and conversations with each other

Learning different viewpoints
What do we hope to accomplish today?

Respond to the recommendations identified by campus practitioners during the February workshop, including:

- Streamline strategic goals, objectives, and KPIs
- Develop a sustainable planning and evaluation cycle
- Build a foundation for a more inclusive, broad-based campus planning culture

Strategic Goals, Objectives, and KPIs

Annual Planning and Evaluation Cycle
Values and Assumptions for Today’s Planning Activities

Current strategic goals need to be prioritized, meaningful, and manageable.

Planning should be ongoing, including a mid-cycle update, annual reflection and action planning.

KPI data should help the college evaluate progress toward goals and inform future planning.

Established college governance groups make formal recommendations related to college planning.

Some Tips for Creating Impactful College Goals

Strategic goals should...

Be uncomfortable and should push the entire college to achieve and/or improve

Clearly communicate the highest priorities of the college

Limited in number

Somewhat connected and interdependent

Institutional Planning on the Mesa

The history of strategic and integrated planning at Mesa College is documented on the Institutional Effectiveness website. Our Education Master Plan (EMP) defines who we want to be, and now we are putting our words into actions as we strive to achieve the goals we set for ourselves.

Our mission, vision, and values remain unchanged, but they will be revisited this year, as part of our multi-year evaluation cycle. Our EMP defined six strategic directions and twenty-three goals. The College planning committees are working on prioritizing these goals and developing measures to assess our progress on them.

The mission statement and strategic goals are included in the Appendix.

We have developed a new Annual Integrated Planning Cycle infographic which was approved on May 5, 2015 at President’s Cabinet (see Appendix). We redesigned this infographic to be student-centered, and to show the links between our plans, processes, actions, and assessment. As posted on the Institutional Effectiveness website, each box is hyperlinked to the committees and offices involved at each stage, along with an explanation of the acronyms. The infographic went through multiple levels of design and setting, as is our custom.

The work of most of these committees is detailed below. Last year, the College discussed the relationships of these major committees and their reporting structure. Our dialogue centered on transparency, alignment, integration, and communication.

Major College Committees for Integrated Planning

President’s Cabinet (see Appendix)

President’s Cabinet comprises members from all participatory governance bodies on the campus. As such, it serves as the major recommending body of the College, the culmination of discussions at all the other levels. The President gets the data and input she needs to make informed decisions. These outcomes are then carried back to all participatory governance bodies.

The Cabinet holds two retreats each year to evaluate where the College is with respect to institutional effectiveness. In the Fall, the group typically looks at how we do what we do, and in the Spring, it assesses outcomes of all of our processes and the status of key performance indicators. Based on these discussions, College processes and policies are reviewed and revised if needed.

At the Spring 2015 President’s Cabinet retreat, a group of about 50 individuals worked on setting...

Decision Making Philosophy - Dialogue and Consensus

The district’s planning and decision making processes emphasize the importance of dialogue during decision making discussions and the importance of consensus to reach final recommendations.

Authentic dialogue occurs when colleagues collaboratively explore complex issues to reach a common understanding of the issues. This process requires that the participants enter discussions as equals, suspending their titles and preconceived ideas in order to listen to others’ viewpoints. Authentic dialogue is successful when colleagues combine their insights and knowledge to develop a broader and collective understanding of the issues, resulting in the group being prepared to develop more meaningful recommendations.

Consensus is a collective opinion characterized by the following five elements:

1. Collaboration: Proposals for consideration are constructed with input from all interested group members.
2. Inclusion: As many stakeholders as appropriate should be included in the group’s discussions.
3. Participation: All participants contribute to the discussion.
4. Agreement Seeking: The group makes a concerted attempt to reach full agreement.
5. Cooperation: Decisions may incorporate individual concerns, but are designed to benefit the whole group. Individual preferences do not override the needs of the whole group.

District-wide committees, councils, and task forces are encouraged to use the following best practices to reach consensus:

- Clarification of the Issue: At the outset of the discussion, issues are clearly presented.
- Discussion/Dialogue: Participants combine their insights and knowledge to develop a broader and collective understanding of the issues.
- Participation: Committee members accept responsibility for attending meetings, designating a substitute when unable to attend, contributing to the discussion, and following up on action items. Committee chairs are expected to schedule meetings in a way that maximizes participation.
- Consensus: Committee members are asked to utilize consensus to reach a decision. The committee reaches consensus once all members and guests have had an opportunity to contribute to the discussion and no one feels so strongly against a resolution that their objection must be noted.
  - Consensus does not require unanimous approval; however, consensus does require that the group attempts to hear member’s perspectives for mutual understanding and find a compromise, if possible. If a group can’t reach consensus, the differing viewpoints can be forwarded to the next level of decision making as unresolved.
- Committee Recommendations/Decisions: Once consensus is achieved, all committee members support the decision making process, and the recommendations of the committee.

District-wide Budget Planning Groups

Each of the district-wide groups that have a major role in planning and budget recommendations are listed below. These district-wide councils make recommendations to the chancellor on a variety of district-wide topics and have a significant role in budget planning. Committees may make recommendations to the chancellor on placing items on the agendas of one or more of the district-wide councils. The district-wide councils and committees document their description, charge, membership, and annually review and revise them as necessary.

- Chancellor’s Council
- District-wide Planning Council (DWPC)
- District Resources Allocation Council (DRAC)
- Basic Aid Allocation and Recommendation Committee (BAARC)
- District-wide Technology Committee (DTC)
- Capital Improvement Committee (CIC)

Council/Committee Charge

Chancellor’s Council

District-wide Budget Planning and Allocation Process Flow Chart

This chart indicates the relationship among the district-wide committees chaired by the chancellor or appropriate vice chancellor that makes recommendations related to planning and resource allocation. The district wide councils report to the chancellor. Recommendations made by the committees are directed to the chancellor. The chancellor also places committee items onto the various council agendas as needed and appropriate. Each of the key district-wide councils and committees, described earlier, are documented at the district SharePoint site.

24 Planning and Committee Structures

District-wide Budget Planning and Allocation Process Flow Chart

The colleges and district services rely on numerous councils, committees, and task forces that provide for representation from all constituent groups in order to create a structure for widespread participation. The district-wide administration, district services and college constituent groups participate in district-wide decision making through a representative model. College administrators are included on all district level councils. Representatives of the academic senate, classified staff, and representatives of the exclusive bargaining representatives are included on appropriate district councils.

Committee Member Roles

Chair
The chair of each district-wide committee (unless otherwise noted, this term is used throughout this document to include all councils, committees and task forces) has the responsibility for setting agendas that conform to each committee’s purpose (charge); to chair the meeting; to work with the recorder in posting agendas, minutes, and handouts on the district-wide committee SharePoint site; to clearly identify committee recommendations/decisions and action items for the committee; and to work in the spirit of collegiality through consensus and ensure that the process is clear and transparent. The chair forwards the actions and recommendations/decisions of the committee. When the committee cannot come to consensus, it is the chair’s responsibility to follow the process identified to resolve the issue.

Members
Committee members will be active participants who represent their constituencies, vote on their behalf, and communicate committee activities to their constituent groups. Each committee member is expected to be an active communicator on behalf of the committee. Each committee member has a responsibility to communicate committee activities through appropriate methods at their site, both formal and informal, so that the district-wide committee activities are clear, transparent and widely known.

Recorder
The recorder assists the chair to set agendas that conform to the committee’s purpose (charge); to work with the chair in posting agendas, minutes, and handouts on the district-wide committee SharePoint site; to clearly identify committee recommendations/decisions and action items in the minutes, and to post all appropriate items on the committee’s SharePoint site in a timely manner per the district’s communication guidelines.

Summary of the February 3, 2017 Workshop

The second workshop in the strategic planning workshop series centered on the following session goals:

- Review previous accreditation recommendations related to integrated planning
- Reflect on the current strategic plan
- Prioritize areas for improvement of the strategic planning model

As an initial activity and to reflect on the first strategic planning session, participants were asked to share their biggest takeaways from the first session. Although there was not complete overlap between the participants in the first session and in the second session, there were a few participants that noted key takeaways from the first session, including the following:

- Learning principles for integration
- Drawing connections between cultural competence and planning

Based on our discussions with the Rania and her team, it was important to revisit the recommendations that were provided in the 2015 accreditation report to see what progress the college has made in improving the dialogue about the strategic plan in relationship to overall institutional effectiveness. This would also serve as an important assessment for the accreditation mid-term report. To these ends we presented basic planning terminology, definitions and examples of other plans in order to frame the discussion for the participants on finding more clarity and manageability to the plan. Once we established a simplified framework we had the participants read the following excerpts from the 2015 Accreditation Report.

ACCJC Team Report 2015 College Recommendation #2

In order to improve effectiveness, the team recommends that dialogue about the results of the evaluation and measurement of strategic goals and objectives be increased so that the outcomes of College efforts to improve can be used to make decisions regarding the improvement of institutional effectiveness in an ongoing and systematic cycle of evaluation, integrated planning, resource allocation, implementation, and re-evaluation.

The College has done significant work on integrating and revising its planning processes with the latest iteration of the College’s Strategic Plan articulating the central role of the strategic plan relative to other major planning documents and processes. The 2014-2019 Strategic Plan integrates with other College plans primarily by incorporating initiative/objective-level items from other plans (e.g., Technology Plan strategies). While the integration is laudable, the resulting strategic plan contains over 150 strategic initiatives/objectives, and many of the objectives included in the plan are not measurable or are simply not measured or reported on, perhaps due to the large number of objectives. (I.B.2) (page 22 of the team report)
While these findings in and of themselves may not be clearly indicative of a problem, it became apparent in other interviews with faculty, staff and administrators that these key personnel and decision-makers were in general not familiar with the College’s performance on its measurable strategic goals and initiatives/objectives, indicating that this information was not actively being used for decision-making. A link titled “Strategic Initiatives and Benchmarks” is available in the planning section of the ORPIE website. The linked document provides extensive data on the performance of the College in achieving its strategic goals. (I.B.2) (page 23 of the team report)

The College has done significant work on integrating and revising its planning processes. It would be useful in supporting a planning cycle of continuous improvement if evidence of assessment of strategic plan objectives relative to the initial benchmarks and stated targets were more prominent so that decision-making processes can use the results of these evaluations to drive decision-making. Summary of the May 5, 2017, Workshop
The third and final workshop in the strategic workshop centered on the following session goals:

- Review Planning Definitions, Values, Norms and Assumptions building on the last two workshop activities and continue to work on accreditation recommendations
- Continue to discuss and streamline current strategic plan goals, objectives, and key performance indicators
- Review models for annual and multi-year planning cycles for future development of a sustainable planning and evaluation cycle at Valley College
- Review models for planning and decision making structures for to enhance inclusive, broad-based campus planning culture at Valley College

We started the day with a discussion on what the participants recalled from the last planning workshops and what things were important to continue at Valley College. The following list includes the participants’ discussion highlights.

Planning Values, Norms, and Assumptions for Valley College

- Ensuring this work is carried forward after the workshop and results in action/change
- Important to include previously marginalized voices in the planning process
- Need to broaden dialog across the campus about planning and decision-making -- needs to move beyond College Council
- Need to include students in planning process -- leverage student voice in planning
- Offer planning workshops or events on campus to ensure easier access for students as well as faculty and staff
San Bernardino Valley College Strategic Planning Workshop

- Need to make the plan understandable and specific; goal is to be:
  - Simple
  - Concise
  - Clear
- Need to improve communication and dissemination of information
- Ensure current committee structure is relevant to college aims and effective
- Emphasize participation in governance/decision-making - engagement is critical and will require a culture shift
- Leverage communication mechanisms and channels
- Value feedback from constituent groups
- Leverage personal communication (beyond emails) to build trust

Observations and Recommendations from Facilitators
As this was the last planning workshop in the series over the course of the year, we heard the importance of continuing this dialogue on improving planning at Valley College. As facilitators we feel the participants who came to the workshops represented the passion and love for the college and the desire to make Valley an even better institution. We highly recommend keeping this group together as champions for integrated and strategic planning and the work that has been accomplished over this last year. We hope this group will lead the planning dialogue and implementation of the recommendations.

The list below outlines other concerns expressed by participants. These concerns may not have been directly addressed in our presentations or activities but should be addressed as part of the on-going planning work at Valley College:
- Participants noted that previous strategic plan represents a previous campus culture and leadership orientation
  - Similarly, there appears to remain a certain concern about trust and transparency in decision-making processes
- Participants cited a lack of stakeholder engagement (faculty, classified staff, and students) in college planning
- Participants were not confident that the retreat outcomes would not be carried forward
- Ambivalence in creating a decision-making manual due to previous institutional experience

Additionally as facilitators we would like to add a few other areas in planning that are important but we did not have enough time to full address in the workshops.
- Identify ways in which KPI data can be communicated to the campus community and used for planning

 Set aside time and space for expanded dialog on KPIs and college strategic goals/action planning

The third workshop validated our key observations from February's workshop and demonstrated that Valley College may benefit from focusing on these four areas in the next year. Committing to these areas of focus will ensure the current strategic plan takes a more manageable form that can be communicated to, and understood by, the larger campus community.
Recommendations Based on Review of the Current Strategic Plan Goals and Objectives

In order to make progress on the current plan, we recommend continuing to work on the following areas in the next academic year.

1. Define Planning Terms
   Participants provided a substantial amount of feedback regarding the goals and objectives. Many of the comments centered on creating shared meaning around the terms associated with planning (e.g., goal, strategic initiative, objective, indicator). In light of this, we recommend the following action items:

   Create a planning glossary or definition guide for the strategic plan

2. Simplify and Focus the Plan
   Many participants comments pertained to the quality and quantity of the objectives outlined in the current strategic plan. Participants indicated there were far too many objectives to manage in the given strategic planning time frame and that the objectives needed to be aggregated or prioritized. Still other participants noted that the objectives appeared to be too granular or were not clear or measurable. In light of this, we recommend the following action items:

   Continue to streamline and prioritize the goals, objectives, and KPIs
   Build strategic plan action steps into other existing plans (e.g. technology plan, distance education plan)

3. Planning Timeline
   Participants noted that the strategic plan may need to be revisited on a regular basis, such as mid-way through the 6-year planning cycle, to ensure that the goals are still relevant and to make any necessary shifts in priorities or focus, based on changes in internal and external factors. In light of this, we recommend the following action items:

   Revise or clarify the strategic planning timeline with designated time for collaboration, sharing and communicating the progress on the strategic plan

4. Strategic Planning Communication and Annual Review
   There was considerable consensus that, in order to move forward, the College needs to set aside a space and time for dialog about institutional planning and evaluation. This could take the form of an annual retreat or workshop that includes members of key constituent groups and governance group representatives. In light of this, we recommend the following action items:

   Explore opportunities for more directly and meaningfully linking strategic goals to unit-level planning and other college plans (e.g., through program review, planning matrices, and/or other integrated planning processes)

Prepared by Denice Inciong and Bri Hays
In summary, we feel Valley College is on its way to building a more robust and efficient planning model, especially with the support and sponsorship of the college President. We are encouraged by the support and engagement of the Valley College team in each of the planning workshops. These workshops were a significant step forward in further engaging the college community in strategic and integrated planning. We hope that recommendations of the participants and facilitators have been helpful and warrant exploration for possible implementation.

With strong executive leadership and inclusive and collaborative dialogue, Valley College is well on its way to advancing its planning and evaluation culture. As an example of this, at the end of the workshop on May 5th, Valley’s President was already planning Town Hall meetings for the next year to communicate with the campus community regarding planning efforts and other critical issues to broaden the engagement across the campus.

We want to thank you for the opportunity to work with Valley College. We have learned so much College team and look forward to seeing the great progress and positive changes implemented at Valley in the next few years.
