About Valley-Bound Commitment

What began as a pilot program for 31 students in 2008 has blossomed into an award-winning program that has led to greater levels of student success for hundreds of Inland Empire residents.

Since its inception in 2008, participants in the Valley Bound Commitment (VBC) have achieved higher grades than their peers, continued their education beyond their first year at a higher rate than typical students, transferred to four-year colleges throughout California, and even spoken at Commencement ceremonies.

Now entering its fifteenth year of providing a free first year of college to local high school graduates entering college, the Valley Bound Commitment Program at San Bernardino Valley College serves over 20 high schools from our local area.

Education for “All” Starts with Opportunity. The Valley Bound Commitment program is generously supported by the San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.
